If you're looking for a tool that can help you transfer your entire computer to another machine, then this is the software that was made for the job. acronis true image 2013 serial number is not only used to backup your computer and restore it in case anything goes wrong; It's also an HDD (hard disk drive) cloning software which lets you either clone or make a full backup of an existing HDD. This allows users to back up their machines onto another hard disk drive, ensuring they don't lose any data in case of a hard-drive failure or theft. This software also includes a special tool that allows users to boot their computer from a dedicated recovery-disk. This disk contains the backup that you created with the software and the operating system as well; this way you can boot your computer from this dedicated recovery-disk and restore your entire hard disk drive. "acronis true image 2013 serial number" is able to connect and access all Windows-based computers (XP, Vista, Win7 and even 2000). It also has other options such as: encrypting backup data, storing backups on remote machines, accessing multiple backups by creating profiles and working with only files and folders instead of an entire hard disk drive. The interface of the software is very easy to use and well organized. The main part of the screen shows a big panorama image where you can choose to clone or back up an entire hard disk drive and the other part shows a step-by-step menu that will guide you through all the simple and intuitive steps that will help you create an entire backup of your HDD. The "acronis true image 2013 serial number" features:

This software only runs on Windows operating systems such as XP, 7 (x86 and x64), Vista (x86 and x64) and Win 2k (x86). This software doesn't support 64-bit Windows 7 or Vista. It supports 32-bit operating systems only. "acronis true image 2013 serial number" is a great backup/restore software that is easy to use, doesn't consume too much HDD space, has a good interface and advanced features that will help users manage the backup process in the easiest way possible.
